A family oriented recording featuring voice, guitar, fiddle, mandolin, hammered dulcimer, and more. Both traditional and newly composed folk songs are brought to life that kids of all ages will enjoy. 22 MP3 Songs KIDS/FAMILY: General Children's Music, FOLK: Folk Pop Details: Hazel Ketchum plays many instruments and sings. Hazel is best known as a lute player, singer, and member of the early music group Sonus. They have three CD's released on a major label with great reviews and all the glory that comes with being a Medieval musician. Hazel plays for children quite bit these days because she wants an audience that sings and claps along and occasionally has chocolate donut icing on their face. Hazel also teaches music at her studio Hungry Monk Music in Charleston, SC. She teaches piano, guitar, voice and songwriting. In the summers you might find Hazel in the Cuyahoga National Park in Ohio where she has been Artist in Residence for the past two years. While in the park Hazel plays concerts for campers, formal house concerts, outdoor concerts and at the train station in Peninsula, OH. Hazel has two children - Althea who is 9 and Jeremy 4. Althea is featured on "Big as the World" singing "Did you feed my cow", "Walked around the corner" and the last "Goodnight to you all". Several of Althea's friends are also singing on the CD and they all happened to go the same Montessori School when they were little so we call them the Palmetto Montessori Singers. Chandler Marburg owns and teaches at the school and sings harmony on "Big as the World". Jeremy was too little to sing on this CD, but is already planning his solo for the next CD. "Big as the World" was intended to provide music to sing with, ride in the car, clean house, dance and sleep to. Hazel's concerts feature the talented audiences singing, dancing and doing their favorite "Magic Carpet" verses.
