Kerner, studying and performing in Europe and America, has developed her art of expressing humankind's deep-seated longings, fears, frustrations and aspirations. Her singing reveals her soul, and here we find the spirits of Jolson, Brice, Armstrong and Sinatra. Ms. Kerner sings compositions from the American Songbook. These creations of America's finest and most popular composers tell the tales of their century, the 20th century. Most of these are love songs, but in the broadest sense of the phrase, meaning they reveal the emotional landscape of not just the lovers, but of the times in which they were written. To sing such songs as these you must love and be loved. You must love to give love. When you listen you will know you are hearing musical love.
