KIDS/FAMILY: Children's Storytelling, KIDS/FAMILY: Lullabies Details: Who is Lullalee? Lullalee (pronounced Lulla as in Lull-a-by) is author and composer Lee Ann Butler-Owens; who combines her written, composed and performed talents to provide the highest musical adventures for children. The Lullalee Series, serve as a vehicle to promote education and positive messages through music. The center of attention is focused on preschool through the fifth grade level, however Lullalee places no limit on the listener age. Owens showcased her original compositions in several projects as an accomplished performer but now chooses the newest media in children's entertainment to display her combined talent. Lullalee was developed when Owens wrote "Colleen's Dollhouse" a children's adventure, and dedicated the material to five- year old Lauryn Westbrook in Memory of her Mother Sylvia, who was Owens cousin. Lullalee's focus is to bring family values coupled with encouraging tools for children to survive in today's changing society. Emphasis on education and its role in each child's life is the theme and focal point of the musical stories. This media brings to life the basic audiovisual effect, allowing the listener to create his or her own images. "Colleen's Dollhouse" Is the first of many audio experiences to come! Each visit to the magical world of Colleen and the colorful characters she encounters, bring laughter and excitement to the young and the old alike.
