"There is nothing pithy about this band's street smart rock which recalls the best of mid-70's New York style proto-punk - Ventura County Reporter Crunching guitars, hooks galore and the incredible voice of Moira Dahling... 8 MP3 Songs POP: Power Pop, ROCK: Modern Rock Details: What do you get when you put Blondie, a little Clash and Pistols, a pinch of Bush and a dash of Gwen into an El Nino blender, add single malt scotch, turn it on "11" and record the results? Bursting from the confines of pop music comes "six ways from Sunday", the second release from Bimbo Du Jour. Eight crafted songs with the power to test the limits of your stereo and the lyrics to reflect your innermost thoughts and desires in this time of our lives. Bimbo Du Jour caught the eye and ear of EMI-Capitol Records who licensed BDJ's version of Springsteen's "No Surrender" (track 3). The cut appears on the Springsteen Tribute album single featuring the Smithereens and was realeased in January '98 "six ways from Sunday" is the second release from BDJ and has received airplay across the country. The band is currently in Los Angeles recording their 3rd CD which is scheduled to be released in January. In the meantime, check out "six ways", e-mail the band and try to get in touch with your inner bimbo ----- "There is nothing pithy about this band's street smart rock which recalls the best of mid-70's New York style proto-punk -Ventura County Reporter "Bimbo Du Jour is known for it's catchy guitar pop" - Fresno Bee "Great Pretenders-like rock band" - Len Fagan, Coconut Teaszer, Los Angeles "Bimbo succeeds at crafting hooky guitar pop" - Bakersfield Californian I've explored the boundries of human pollution no regrets - no delusions bout it How bout you? How bout everything?
