

Mp3 Christy Claxton - Out Of Nowhere

Critically acclaimed Americana album with plenty of Texas flair. 10 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, ROCK: Americana Details: Peace from the Porch executive producer, Christy Claxton, used to be a singer/songwriter. She recorded a few CDs. In 2000, she recorded "Out of Nowhere," which is a sophisticated, smart album that showcases Claxton's powerful writing and voice. With the album's release Claxton developed a cult following that still follows her today. She's just harder to catch behind a guitar and microphone these days. In fact, a hard copy of "Out of Nowhere" is impossible to catch because it's out of print and only available via digital distribution. Those who own an actual CD treasure it; not only because of it's beautiful production by veteran studio pro Mark Hallman, but because it is an artistic representation of a performer who left center stage to slip behind the scenes and help promote independent music via her concert series, Bear Creek Concerts, and then through the Peace from the Porch project. Now Claxton spends her time promoting music and raising money for worthy causes like the American Cancer Society and agencies that support victims of domestic violence. She's an articulate, passionate voice who is known for some of the best artist introductions, press releases, one-liners, and arguments for WHY independent music is worth supporting, and she knows how to make the musicians help her bring peace to those who need a little bit of compassion. The download of "Out of Nowhere" is worth it because the music explains what the promoter won't tell you about herself. The production sets the standard for a level of quality that follows Claxton in whatever she does, so studio snobs will love it if Claxton's name is on it. Press Quotes "The new CD sounds wonderful. I can't wait to play the hell out of it." Taylor Cage, KOOP "Christy Claxton's superb new CD, Out Of Nowhere has every endless POSSIBILITY to rise out of nowhere right to the TOP.....!" Linda Waters, The Red Report "I really love her voice and it is so good to discover an artist with a real musical personality." Mike Penard, Radio ISA

France "This is an awesome production, the music has room to breathe and your vocals are right where they need to be, great job!" Mary Gauthier, singer/songwriter "Offering up a talented cross between Joan Baez and Mary Chapin Carpenter, Christy provides a host of original folk tunes worth sharing with friends. Smart, simple and easy on the ears. Out of Nowhere offers engaging, real stories told in a way that only a true Texan woman can tell." Amazon Woman, She Magazine "Personal, as all singer/songwriter works should be, but much more uplifting than most. A very mature and wonderfully performed debut solo project." Sue Donahoe, Local Flavor
