

Mp3 Poroli - Pop: Quirky

Wierdo "psych non psych pop non pop" made exclusively by one "slow aged" brain. That's PNPPNP for short. Kinda like "the pod" era Ween, "rythmic" Jandek, and/or early Beck. 8 MP3 Songs POP: Quirky, ROCK: Psychedelic Details: I did this all completely by myself except for cover photo. Everything from the CD art and printing to recording. These songs are really sketches or rough demos. One take was the rule, usually making up the basic tracks on the spot. Little or no practice was done either. Most of the time I would record cold after not playing any instruments for months. This technique helps keep it spontaneous and in a one of a kind mood. Gooberdy Doober Dog: We have a cat named Gustav who acts like a dog. When I was a kid adults and deities always let me down. To counteract this I would give my pets' imaginary super powers. Although my main childhood cat Frisky went insane I will always immortalize him. Magic Mushroom: Magic mushrooms are an abstract truth in the rainy train yards of Milwaukee or your neck of the woods. X-RAY: A quick check on the Heisenberg uncertainty principle. 700 Hammers: A good way to think whilst staring at a waiting room wall. In the Colony: We had these ants and I had just purchased an audible frequency generator. These are the sounds of chemical disturbance before breakdown via pesticide. Puttin' the Feelers Out This is the same concept as above but more one on one. Misery Sand: Recorded in 1991. Originally titled Dream Song. Pretty boring idea really although the dreams weren't. Dante's Toast: An ethereal summation of a 2 year olds' breakfast and his dead grandmother.
