A Nick Drake, Leonard Cohen-like, straight from the heart honest songwriting, with more than a touch of the spiritual. 11 MP3 Songs FOLK: Gentle, WORLD: Western European Details: This album marks the culmination of a period of time in my life of great uncertainty and change. I suppose the split with my life-long partner, almost all my family, and nearly all my friends inspired this music, with such a depth of intensity. The demise took me by total surprise - just when I was flying so high! Anyway, the upshot was this album - a landmark to that extremely human condition we call suffering. I wrote the songs over 4 years, but mostly during early 2006. The poignancy reflects a very profound sense of sadness, but ultimately - the ever-transcendent quality of the human spirit. Someone messaged me recently through myspace: Thanks for touching. From the very first note of your work on the site I was engorged by a profound sense of sadness. I hear you I feel you. You really do bear the sadness of the world; but the catharsis that you inspire enables the light to come through. You are a light bearer and I look forward to hearing the flames of hope that you are igniting, as you heal yourself and all those around you. Your pebble of peace ripples around the world. Bless you.(P.S) I couldnt possibly say anything more than this about my music, or better describe how it has been for me and this album. If you are a totally happy person, please give it a wide berth! Otherwise, tread gently with it we are all mirrors to each others soul.
