This is what God is doing through hip-hop. It's becoming an international language, and God is using that language." - Ason Ason (A son of God) is an acclaimed Gospel rap artist poised to have a major influence on the hip-hop industry. With his buzz building among fans and industry insiders around the country, the young preacher, label owner (Toe 2 Toe Records), and now rapper is using music to present God in a whole new light. Ason is a gifted, anointed performer who consistently moves crowds, both young and old, into praise and worship with potent lyrics that are easy to understand and an agility with word-play that places him with the best in the industry. In just 3 years as a rapper, he has ministered everywhere from churches, to college campuses, night clubs, and schools. He has shared the stage with Mary Mary, Fred Hammond, Israel New Breed, Deitrick Haddon, Tonex, Nicole C. Mullen, Cross Movement da' T.R.U.T.H., Brent Jones, Tye Tribett, Ramiyah, and 4th Avenue Jones. Currently, Ason can be seen coast to coast ministering the gospel and promoting his latest album, "The Recruiter - Part 1: Special Edition". This multi-media version of his debut project features 5 additional songs and 12 minutes of live performance video footage. Long-Term, Ason is planning to reach the mainstream audience with Christian rap music produced specifically for the club environment. His next album will feature a solid lineup of club bangers and dance tracks. "I'm calling out to young leaders," says Ason, "It takes a leader to stand for God these days and we need the influence of anointed leadership to bring change to our troubled communities." Ason and his music represent a new wave of talent in the body of Christ. As both an artist and a preacher, he encourages all ministers of the Gospel to focus on the message and not the method. "Young people need more than a sermon," he says "they need something they can vibe with. If they feel they can relate to it, then you got 'em."
