Annette was coming off touring with a Boston theater company. She felt disillusioned with the theater scene. "I felt theater was a dinosaur. I wanted to create something that was creatively stimulating and cutting edge." I was auditioning guitar players. Christian and Mike saw my ad and we got together. It was instant synergy. The drug being, materialism, greed, lack of connection to spirit. But we also wanted to invoke the transformative nature of being in a state of altered consciousness. We grew up in a apocalyptic society. There was so much fear, internal and outer. We felt a need to express the emotional struggle of finding a way to maintain a sense of purpose and hope in our lives."
