Here's An Easy Way To Reduce The Risks Associated With Buying Advertising, By Sharing Costs With Other Webmasters! Advertising online can be an expensive business, with quality solo ads often costing up to a hundred dollars or more. And quite often those ads just don't perform as well as you might have hoped. But without some sort of advertising, your business doesn't get the traffic it needs. So how can you reduce the cost - and risk - of advertising online? It's simple - find other webmasters selling something similar and then split the cost of the advertising with them. A hundred dollars split between five people is just $20 each - and while this does mean splitting the profits, it also means splitting the risk too. This means you can try more advertising offers, to find ones that work best for you and your partners. All you need to apply this strategy is an easy way to split the resulting traffic between you website and those of your partners. That's where Web Traffic Spreader comes in. It's a simple script that sends visitors to a web address chosen from a set of web addresses that you specify. It doesn't matter if you have one partner or twenty. The script will equally split the visitors between all the websites. With Web Traffic Spreader, it's quick and easy to apply this solution to any website you own. Just enter the set of links into the script set up tool: The tool will create a new script file that you upload to your website. Now just send all your traffic to the web address of the script. Your partners can test the script themselves, to make sure it is splitting the traffic correctly between all the partners. But for additional peace of mind, Web Traffic Spreader has a special partners page that you can share with your partners, so everyone can instantly see that the traffic is being split properly. You only need to order one copy of this software, irrespective of how many sites you own. You can install your copy of the Web Traffic Spreader script on as many sites as you want - all at no extra cost. Master Resale Rights! _____ See My Store For More Deal!!!
