No not some wannabe trying to pawn themselves off as a rodeo hand in country music, Junior IS what he sings about. A three event professional Rodeo man (Bare Back, Saddle Bronc and Bull Riding) and working cowboy from Colorado now living in Wyoming. His music shows his roots; from the traditional country he grew up with, to his number one influence the great Chris LeDoux. But his rodeo travels introduced him to the Red Dirt and Texas movement. He claims to be the biggest fan of No Justice and song writer, Steven Rice. With a modern sound containing the instrumental genius of Ernie Martinez, and his traditional country and rodeo lyrics, Junior gives each track off I Do It For Me something different. From his tribute song to his hero LeDoux, to the comical yet in your face Walk Your Talk, a no holds barred Last Real American Cowboy. The entire album is tells the story of his life with songs like I Paid The Price (But At What Cost) and finishes with his message about the death of the American farmer. Junior shows he can stay true to Bucking Horse Country and develop some Red Dirt sound to come at you with a one of a kind album.
