

Silver Threads Among The Gold

Thomascows version Silver threads among the gold was first copyrighted in 1873, it was a very popular song in the United States in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. The lyrics are by Eben E. Rexford, and the music by Hart Pease Danks. This is the first song I learnt to play and sing on the guitar in my early twenties, then I thought little of the lyrics, but today at 66 years of age, they are very significant as all those that I grew up with I still see them, and even myself in a much younger state of mind. As one can see I also taught Albert the same song as we pondered the theory of relativity. Enjoy
