Amanda is rapidly climbing to the front of the pack of female artists in Canada. Determination, courage and strength typify the high energy, musically rich and diverse live performance Amanda has perfected. Over the past three years Amanda has received critical acclaim from media across the country, opening for bands like The White Stripes, Finger Eleven, Lucinda Williams, The Trews, Sloan, Jeff Martin(The Tea Party) and Ani DiFranco to name a few. Her early performing days go as far back as 1999 sharing the stage with veterans Sarah MacLachlan, The Dixie Chicks, and The Indigo Girls at Lilith Fair in Toronto. "To share the stage with these people and connect to their audience is a challenge, and they've embraced me. It's so amazing that such a variety of crowds have taken to my music so well." Her stage show is a high octane, energetic, tight and dynamic. Amanda and her four-piece band deliver a wide range of musical textures spanning pop, rock and alternative, sprinkled with her own unique vocal styling. Amanda exudes excitement in concert, organically drawing in the crowds' attention with her positive energy and downright natural love for music and performing.
