Details: As a follow up to their debut Dive In, Chocolate Seastorm releases a two albums at once with a set of covers and rarities in Swim and Float. If youve ever heard them live, youve heard most of this before. Continuing with their retro-infused brand of pop and rock, Chocolate Seastorm mines a reserve of recordings to bring a fresh take on songs were familiar with and some were not. Float starts off with the mood setting Feelin Good made famous by Nina Simone but equally compelling here with Alanna Vicentes bewitching voice and Dave Merendas silky guitar. The guitar continues on the next track, the Hendrix classic, Little Wing but with a sweet edge. Chocolate Seastorm has no less than 3 samba tracks starting out the with Jorge Ben song, Mais Que Nada, then two Jobim songs Girl From Ipanima and Corcorvado with Miss Vicente singing in Portuguese no less. Inserted between these lovely latin songs is the only and only song sung by producer/band member Dave Merenda, the Harry Nilsson Without Her. Daves smooth vocals are set up by the artfully played trumpet line throughout. Things take a turn with Still Confused a tale of woe and doubt then on to the dance floor with Waves a tale of surfing and decisiveness. We move on to an obscure cover of The Truth from Handsome Boy Modeling School. This time its a lovely bluesy tune that evokes a smoky back room. The same feeling comes over you through Spooky the loungey Its Not Over and the Bacharach classic Look Of Love The whole thing ends up on a sweet note with Pure Imagination made famous by the other iconic chocolate reference, Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. Float is an excellent companion to the dual release of Swim with both of them showing the vast influences on this fun, quirky band. Chocolate Seastorm may have slipped off the radar in the past few years but this collection of wonderfully fun and loose covers, originals, and live takes makes the wait worthwhile.
