

Mp3 Jennifer Vazquez - Bend

DOWNLOAD HERE

Timeless, soulful and pure folk pop 13 MP3 Songs FOLK: Gentle, POP: Delicate Details: Next Gig: Friday, Nov. 11th The Mint 6010 Pico Blvd. 10:30pm Sharp! $10 for more info: jennifervazquez.com Hey guys... Here's the radio spot I did in NY on Rockland World Radio. Hope you enjoy! rocklandworldradio.com/program/mmm/ News... LA MUSIC AWARDS nominated Jen's new album "Bend" for Triple A Album of the Year. Music Connection Showcase -The Gig (Melrose) - 2/15/05 By: Cyhndi Mora Jennifer Vazquez has a warmth about her and poise that not only attracts some of the best local indie musicians as fans, but makes everyone at her shows feel at home and spoken to. Her presence on stage is as accessible and friendly as her performance is professional and polished. She really gets it across that she's happy to see you, inviting you in for her heart-to-heart lyric blend of poetry and emotional wisdom delivered via her powerful dynamic vocal range, really belting without ever seeming to stretch or strain too far or loose it's punch. She seems to move effortlessly from an almost Cline-esque growl to Appalachian - flavored twists that remind me a little of Natalie Merchant or the Cranberries all while stylishly alternating her guitar picking and strumming, and creating a wall of sound that filled the club every bit as much as a full band and still balanced her vocals and guitar so you could hear every word and nuance. Lyrically Jennifer has a story to tell and she makes no bones about breaking it all down for us. She's taken a hit or two to the chest but retained her own brand of hearty optimism and wisdom about her life and times, serving up poignant reminders that there's always a hidden lining to what ever cloud you happen to be standing under at the time without coming off preachy or clich. Many of the songs she played tonight were from her new album, "Bend", her hot off the presses full-band and full length release of exquisitely and tastefully produced snapshots from the heart told with an emotional wisdom and grace she seems far too young to possess, truly a diamond in the L.A. sand.

Jen's Bio Indie powerhouse Jennifer Vazquez has built a reputation throughout the Los Angeles music scene as one of the hardest working and most prolific singer/songwriters working today. Influenced by artists like Joni Mitchell, Billy Joel, Tracy Chapman, Natalie Merchant and U2, Jennifer's music is a heart-to-heart lyric blend of poetry and emotional wisdom delivered via her powerful dynamic vocal range. She has the kind of voice that is crystal clear with a purity that is rarely heard. Jennifer's proudest accomplishment is the recent release of her second studio album "Bend" which has already been nominated for "Independent Triple A Album of The Year" by the Los Angeles Music Awards. Jennifer has been a constant in the music scene over the past years with her five ASCAPLU$ awards, recognizing her as an active and promising young songwriter, in her being named as one of Music Connection magazine's "Hot 100 Unsigned Artists" two years in a row, as well as her receiving a nod from the prestigious Billboard Songwriting Contest for the past two years for the songs "Bend", "Nothing Without You", "I'm No Saint" and "He's Like Strawberry Milk". Born and raised in the Bronx, New York, Jennifer sang in the band "Blush" while attending Stonybrook University. Inspired by her first trip to California, she taught herself to play guitar and went solo, honing her craft in New York City clubs like The Bitter End, The Baggot Inn and Arlene's Grocery. She had some label interest in her first studio album, "Another Day In The Dark", but chose to return to the roots of her musical inspiration in California instead; determined in her dream to make music her life. Two acoustic CDs ("Just Me And My Taylor" and "Silenced") and two music videos later, ("Running Out Of Time" and "I'm No Saint"), Jennifer keeps a smart and steady pace making those dreams a reality while gaining the friendship and respect of the Los Angeles music community. She has just finished her third music video, "Nothing Without You", from the new album "Bend" which will be officially released in Jan 2006.

DOWNLOAD HERE

Similar manuals: