Over the years he's played in coffeehouses and bars, street corners and subway stations, colleges and festivals, the occasional theater, and (most recently) in his kitchen. Frank Critelli likes other independent songwriters too, and he hosts a monthly live music series at at used bookstore in Hamden, CT. The bookstore is called Books Company. The series is called Songs From The Sofa, and it started in June, 2002. That's a long time ago. The songwriters are great, and the audience is cool. It's a pretty good time. In conclusion, this is the end of the bio.
