Take a folk singer/songwriter from Alabama and a jazz singer/songwriter from New York, add a twist of rock, put them together in France and sprinkle them with an English violinist, a South African bassist, a French drummer and a Spanish percussionist 10 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk Pop, ROCK: Folk Rock Details: Wrapped in Rain... These singer/songwriters, had coincidentally moved to Paris in August of 2002 seeking inspiration as both writers and musicians. Now, after 2 years of working as a duo, these two have combined their unique styles and backgrounds to create the music that makes them, Wrapped in Rain. Combining her strong love of poetry with her natural southern style, Celia Rose of Alabama has performed with bands in the U.S., Israel and Haiti. Johannah Cantwell takes her experience as a jazz performer and her classically trained vocal back-ground from the venues of New York to the acoustic stage of Paris. Together, this duo has performed in venues across England, Italy, France, Togo, Mozambique and Namibia. Their first album, entitled Butterfly, was released by Rolene Press in February of 2005 and includes their bassist, violinist, percussionist and drummer.
