Joe Acosta Dominates The Billboard Charts For 21 Weeks with his hit single I Need Her in 1971. The single I Need Her peaked the number #1 spot for over 21 weeks dropping several singles from Fania's greatest artist to the bottom of the chart and some off the chart. Amazingly, Acosta's young musicians along with vocalist Joe Cruz dominated many hard-hitting artists. Not even the late Ray Barretto (1929-2006) the King of Hard Hands with his Arrepientete could triumph over Joe Acosta's single I Need Her. Willie Colon tried diligently with Abuelita but remained in 5th place. Orquesta Harlow came close at number 3 with Arsenio and the King of Latin Soul, Joe Bataan at number 2 with his sweet soul tune This Boy. On August 14th 1971 the late Ralfi Pagan was number one with his hot Latin Soul hit Make it With You but for only two weeks. Paul Ortiz's Tender Love achieved the number one spot for a couple of weeks dropping Pagan's single to number 2. On September 18th Joe Acosta's I Need Her trampled everyone down to the bottom of the chart and remained victorious in the number one position for over 21 weeks. It was all Joe Acosta. Due to financial difficulties, Ghetto Records an independent record label only printed limited copies of many of their singles and LPs including this hot Latin Soul, swinging Salsa and Latin Jazz LP by Joe Acosta. History is about to repeat itself again. Latin Soul Records will only press limited copies of this Special Limited Edition. On September 2006, Latin Soul Records will only release the Standard Edition which will not include the bonus track All Night Long, the 3 page booklet, the video montage, Joe Acosta's autograph, additional linear notes and the 150 classic band photos and club performances.
