Original songs and instrumentals from Paul Reisler of Trapezoid. Trapezoid is a seminal group in the contemporary acoustic and chamber-folk movements. World class musicianship and songwriting. 11 MP3 Songs FOLK: Modern Folk, NEW AGE: Celtic New Age Details: A collection of original songs and instrumentals by Paul Reisler celebrating life in rural America. Its about the people, places, and stories of the people living in the mountains of Virginia and West Virginia that evoke that timeless sense of a life lived close to the land. The seed that inspired this album came from the work of Wendell Berry, a poet/farmer/teacher/environmentalist from Kentucky who writes beautifully about the land and peoples relationship to it. Featuring Trapezoid; Paul Reisler, guitars and hammered dulcimer; Bobby Read, keyboards, winds, and percussion,; Cecil Hooker, violin; Martha Sandefer, vocals, rhythm guitar and a bunch of Trapezoids favorite musician friends including; Ysaye Barnwell, Howard Levy, Mike Auldridge, Lorraine Duisit, Peter Mark Prince and others. The Press: The tunes climb up the Blue Ridge and down to the Bayou and back up the Himalayas. Wonderfully woven and evocative... Washington Post Paul Reisler is certainly a leader among those who blend the categories, who redefine eclectic or take eclectic to new and wonderful territories Greenville (SC) News Poetic song writing. Acoustic Musician Magazine The vocals are pure poetry. ensemble treats these original tunes by Trapezoid's founder Paul Reisler with the reverence of old traditional ones but with a daring of Promethean proportions. All Music Guide "Paul Reisler's instrumentals are some of the strongest I've ever heard. It's impressionism--the good kind. The kind that gives the listener space to climb in and inhabit the music. It's beautifully recorded. The directness of the songwriting is different than anything I've heard. It has a clear message, world view and stance. Mikel Elcessor, WYEP-FM "Trapezoid is the most innovative, creative, stimulative, refreshingly original music I've heard. "Remembered Ways" stands out against everything else that's out there happening on the music scene." Rod Kennedy, Artistic Director, Kerrville Folk Festival
