Details: Dwayne Dolphin is a veteran player of multiple basses: the acoustic, electric, and piccolo bass, and has performed all over the world with the legendary masters of Jazz and Funk music. Dwaynes career began over twenty five years ago with the Wynton Marsalis Quintet. Hank Crawford became the training ground for this young bassist that baptize him in the world of the Blues. It was at this point Dwayne began his rites of passage that created a demand for his skill with the likes of Hank Jones, Abbey Lincoln, Stanley Turrentine, John Hicks, Geri Allen, Fred Wesley, Pee Wee Ellis, Maceo Parker. 2004 appeared on Nancy Wilson's Grammy Award winning R.S.V.P CD Dwaynes onerous journey naturally led him to the juncture of venturing out on his own and creating his own sound. Dwaynes evolutionary experience led to the selection of the piccolo bass as the primary instrument and choice to become the voice to communicate his thoughts and tell his musical story. The distinct and unique sound of the piccolo bass creates the perfect atmosphere for its listener to grasp a language that is most understood by musicians thus making it accessible to anyone that may encounter its voice. Dwayne can be heard playing the piccolo bass on 4 Robin (Released 2004) and Ming (Released 2006).
