James Taylor and Matthew Sweet meet backstage at a Jason Mraz show, and all three jam together; out comes P.J. Pacifico's, "WELL I'LL BE" 12 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk Pop, EASY LISTENING: Soft Rock Details: After 8 years of touring and co-fronting the band Sunflower, the Connecticut based P.J. Pacifico, makes his solo debut with the release of Well Ill Be on Viper Records. P.J. has been singing since his early childhood. He started playing drums at the age of twelve, and picked up guitar in college. Writing songs is my passion, says P.J., who wrote almost all of the songs on Sunflowers two albums, and everything on his own debut. P.J.s musical influences are vast. He couldnt help hearing harmony, as his mother held her barbershop quartet rehearsals in their kitchen. His Aunt introduced him to James Taylor and Simon Garfunkel, and he found The Police, U2 and R.E.M. on his own. P.J. has shared the stage with Little Feat, Joe Jackson and Guster. He has performed at the legendary Capital Theater, Toads Place, The Bitter End, CBGBs and numerous college venues. He has also been honored to sing our National Anthem at Madison Square Garden. Eager to hit the road to support his new album of songs about everything from love to surviving cancer, P.J. is in the process of setting a national tour.
