Being on three small records labels should emphasize the point that my musical styles are diverse and can not be supported by one label alone. Though an open mind is only the first step to creativity, it is the foundation of an artist. I have collaborated with Jazz musicians to Death Metal drummers to Experimental Music programmers to share applicable ideas that would put their music on different levels. I believe that not all music should be categorized as being 'liked' or 'disliked', rather to be experienced objectively and appreciated. If a listener decides whether likes or dislikes the music they are experiencing then this automatically closes doors to new musical ideas and innovation. This is especially the case in traditional recording studios: the artist searches for approval though mostly searches for direction, ideas and suggestions and it is not relevant if you like the style or not.
