Steel, slide, standup, and sing, songs from the streets of New Orleans 10 MP3 Songs in this album (41:45) ! Related styles: FOLK: Folk Blues, BLUES: Acoustic Blues People who are interested in Mississippi John Hurt Keb Mo Sonny Landreth should consider this download. Details: Kellys new cd takes you on a trip through the streets of New Orleans where he lived and performed till April 2005, and where most of these songs were written. Still slidin on the steel guitar, this time around the instrumentation also includes acoustic guitar, bass, and vocal harmonies. After taking a year off to travel and work on his publishing catalog he now lives on Salt Spring Island and has begun a tour to support Kingdom Come. These songs still fit into a country blues/folk vein, but the style has widened to include more of a Louisiana gumbo influence. One song takes you back to the origin of the Acadian/Cajun people, another through the darkened streets of the French Quarter, and another (the one about two girls) that sounds like it came through Lafayette. Go figure! Though he has returned to visit the Crescent City (and its very much alive!), its more challenging than ever to live there. Huge amounts of work remain to be done, and its really taken a toll on the people who dug in and stayed. However the spirit of the people remains unbowed, and is really something to behold. These songs are dedicated to the city and people of New Orleans, all yall.
