Each of Smitty's compositions on this recording is like a miniature world, transporting the listener to a different place and time, with wild harmonics and trance-inducing frequencies emanating from his guitar. Produced by Todd Horton 10 MP3 Songs BLUES: Acoustic Blues, BLUES: Guitar Blues Details: The best music always seems instantly familiar. Steve Smithie, a New York City guitarist and composer, is a prime example. His music, full of hummable melodies and cinematic soundscapes, tells stories you already seem to know. Yet you've never heard anything like it. Alternately evoking the banks of the Mississippi delta and some mysterious dark alley, Smitty's songs are filled with whimsical melodies, melancholic reminisces, and loose-limbed grooves. It is music without artifice, speaking so directly it is easy to overlook its complexity. Featuring Todd Horton on trumpet, Pat Daugherty on organ, mellotron and accordion, Aaron Comess on drums and bass, Serena Jost on cello and Ella Smithie on vocals.
