Ethereal, eclectic world infused music towards a more compassionate humanity 10 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk Pop, WORLD: World Fusion Details: Say Hello to The Long Goodbyes! Springing from the creative watering ground of Australia's NSW South Coast, this three piece ensemble is poised to inspire the music industry with their lilting yet vibrant, groove-induced, world-friendly tunes. After listening to their recently released first single New thought, Fox Studios director Christopher Collins selected the band as the winners of a full production music video, which is currently being played throughout Australian television networks. Collins company Flickapolitan Films has produced clips for a string of high profile artists during the eighties such as Chris Rea, Sam Brown and Howard Jones. After abandoning his search for a new sound in Sydney, Christopher stumbled across two members of the Long Goodbyes and heard their song New Thought while hanging out down south and promptly signed them up for the shoot. The video is an ethereal montage of pre-Raphaelite motifs . The band has an eclectic mix of creative souls. The voice of singer/songwriter and artist Tracy Verdugo has been long compared to both free spirited Kate Bush, and Harriet Wheeler of the Sundays. Her passionate display of emotion is evident voice. National award winning songwriter/guitarist Mex from the former Indie pop band Twinfish is also a talented engineer, recording and mixing and producing all Long Goodbyes songs, and writes most of the Long Goodbyes music. Drummer, percussionist and keyboardist, John Coleman provides the rhythmic cohesion to the project, with his latin based groove orientated rhythms, and fiery marimba play. The album is a recording that explores themes which both unite and divide us as human beings. Imbued with a strong holistic worldview, it explores several different languages to highlight the wealth of cultural messages and sounds beyond the English language. Spanning Japanese, French, Spanish and English, vocals also glide gracefully between sultry and uplifting, guided and inspired by intelligent composition. Combined, these elements deliver an album that both soothes and tantalise the senses, making it an essential part of any quality music collection. The video is pure alchemy. It ebbs and flows and strangely reminds me of a Botticelli Painting.
