He was raised by his Grandmother R.L. Stevenson. Enoch began writing rhymes at age 15. As a young member of Now-disbanded group Total Kaos, Enoch took to the stage as DeeJay Heath cliff. During this formative period, Enoch started to develop his Own unique rhyming style and learned how to deliver charged-anthems in School hallways, bathrooms, and expanded to the public realm by performing on sidewalks during lunch breaks or Beat boxin in a emcee cipher. After a year of rhyming with Total Kaos, Enoch, then Boogie, decided to explore HipHop even Further. In late 1992, Enoch joined emcee Kidd and together formed a group by name of Datzit. Datzit disbanded in 1995. Enoch then took His rhymes to South Carolina, where he pursued the fitting study of Sociology. There he was introduced to emcee FREEDOM BLACK who, in turn, introduced him to producer FONK C. In late 1997, FONK C produced Enoch's First tape, "Fickle-Mind State" that unfortunately slipped through the Cracks of Hiphop streets. Upon Enoch's 2000 graduation, he returned to His homeDC, and with the help of best friend now DeeJay EARTH1NE, started to work with fellow starving artist VERSE-ALL. The two formed CULTURE CYPHA within a year later. Their first release, "Aztect Planet" was received so well that they performed many shows and radio spins. CULTURE CYPHA then released their second LP entitled "Translations" in 2003. CULTURE CYPHA was also featured in a dvd entitled "Live from the Block".
