JaTT started off MC-ing with RDB, Gubi Sandhu and Indy Sagu. He has had major Untouchables UK releases in the bhangra industry and on mainstream compilations, along with touring nationally and internationally to perform. Now G.I. JaTT has been deployed again. He has been working in solitary confinement to release an operation named MILITANT. The mission is to go in and target the urban-desi market, with influences from baseline, garage, drum and bass, desi and hip hop. Recruits on the frontline are Surinder Shinda, Angrez Ali, Sardool Sikander, Gubi Sandhu, Sabar Koti, Major Mehran, Bakshi Billa, Amar Arshi, Binder and Sanjay Dhaliwal. Our key to infiltration is the opening track, BASELINE BOLIYAAN bringing something different, backed up by AKH SHIKARI with a 12 Track album. The album is releasing on the 14th October 2007 under the MILITANT RECORDS label and will be in all the good, usual asian record/music shops across the UK. The album will also be available for digital download on iTunes, Napster and other leading digital stores. This truly is MILITANT. END Notes to Editors: He started at the early age of 16 and wanted to develop his own style of MCing. Always inspired by genres of music such as bhangra, garage and drum and bass, it was only a matter of time and luck before he achieved his goals. It all began in October 2002 when G.I. JaTT appeared on his first Untouchables UK release. It was a track alongside Gubi Sandhu, called Teray Meray Pyaar Dian. It was from the success of this song, that G.I. JaTT was then chosen by the UK Asian Award winner for best Newcomer (Indy Sagu) to appear on his debut album. G.I. JaTT had his first number one release on this album called Ajaa Soneeay and the track was so popular, it was even chosen to appear on mainstream compilation albums, such as Urban Explosion from Warner Dance and Bombay Mix. From the success of just two tracks, G.I. JaTT became known as the MC alongside Gubi Sandhu and appeared on two tracks on his debut album, Dil Karda. This album won a UK Asian Music award for the best album of 2003. It seemed as if he was just unstoppable now and he still had many goals to achieve. He also done a relick of a popular RDB tune (put sardaran de) which also appeared on the mainstream release, Desi Beats, by DefJam UK. Three music videos which G.I. JaTT appeared in all reached number one on the Zee Music play list charts and each album he has been on has reached number one within at least just only two days in the bhangra industry! ...and now it is time for him to bring us something... ...MILITANT For Bookings please call: +44 (0) 7841 352 823 For IMAGES or more info, please e-mail: info@militantrecords
