I grew up most of my time hanging out in the streets. Living in a broken home with no direction in life, I hung out with a group of individuals from the neighborhood where I'm from, thats where it started. Besides getting into trouble I was exposed to different genres of music. Rap was one of them even though I wasn't into it at the time, I had a great interest in writing rhymes about how I grew up the lifestyle I was living at that time. About five years ago I started getting serious about my writing. My first single "Represent", caught alot of attention so I continued writing. In time, I came across a couple of young talented motivated individuals, who were also in the pursuit of getting into the music industry. We then decided to take our talents combine them. After countless hours of recording long nights at the studio we completed an album this is how I became the artist whom you now know as Tiny Locs.
