With roots that extend from London to Los Angeles, I-94's multinational make-up is apparent in their sound and image. I-94 was formed by British mates Mark Arnell (lead vocal) and Danny Martin (drums/background vocals). Mark and Danny moved to Los Angeles and hooked up with Josh Fields (guitar) and Angelo Barbera (bass) and later added UK guitarist Matt Cheadle to create the new I-94 lineup. Mark and Danny played together in a band called Bottlefly, that had one record released on Universal Records. Josh was born in the UK and moved to LA when he was 8 years old and he's been playing, writing and recording ever since. Angelo was selected to be the first, live bass player with The Doors of The 21st Century and has just completed the tour. Matt is in constant demand as a live player recently touring in Australia with Natalie Imbruglia and in Europe with Ashley Hamilton. Their lush harmonies and crafty arrangements also translate into an unforgettable live performance. I-94 is comfortable rockin' the house as well as creating a mesmerizing set in an intimate acoustic environment.
