Details: BIO INFORMATION Named Grant Ivory, Jr. after my dad, nick named Little Jackie after my uncle who wanted me named after him and my dad refused stating I was the last and he had not name my oldest brother junior. After grade school the little was dropped and the majority of the people in the community and school knew me as Jackie. Born in Blytheville, Arkansas on February 27, 1937, moved to South Bend, Indiana a babe in arms. Learned to play the piano by ear at the Herring House, a local community center. Had been playing for a while before my mother found out and unrolled me in piano lessons at my grade school. The class was during the lunch hour at Oliver Junior High School. Then took private piano lessons the last year of Junior High School and the first year of High School. Started DUWOP singing on the corner of Scott Street and Western Avenue with Otis Bailey, Bobby Stone, Claude Bowling, and Carl Shane. Start playing the piano to keep us in tune. Ended up with a piano trio with Carl Shane on drums and Robert Cobb on bass. Started singing with Bobby Stone and Ike Cunnigan, a very good sounding vocal trio. Carl Shane was drafted in the army and started using Bill Nicks on drums. Hired to play the piano by Jean Hampton, a female Tenor Saxophonist, also a South Bend native. Graduated from Central High School in 1955. Moved to East Chicago, Indiana to work at Inland Steel Mill, Playing music on the week ends with Oscar "Baby" Jones. Enlisted into the US Army in 1959, serving three years in the Army Security Agency, primarily in Germany. After an Honorable Discharge in 1962, played with Guitarist Don Davis in Indianapolis Indiana before starting a Hammond B3 based trio, organ, saxophone and drums. Went on the road for approximately 14 years, including tours with Willis Jackson and Junior walker and the All Stars. Moved to Oakland, California in 1974 and still resides there. Married his childhood sweet heart in 1977. At the age of 24 Jackie made his first recording for Dunwich Productions, "Soul Discovery", which was released on the ATCO Label, Atlantic Records. Is currently signed with Honey Comb Records, South Bend, Indiana, Mr. Robert Plummer executive publisher and CEO. Jackie is also a registered songwriter/composer and music publisher with Broadcast Music, Inc. (BMI). Has toured across the USA, Canada, and Europe.
