Details: Subdued Animosity is about saying what you mean and meaning what you say. No about being the loudest, but making a powerful statement with your music and your words. Its about never turning your back on the truth, and fighting for it, even if you are the only one doing so. Here is a description of each song: Ode to No One("dark reflections through the looking glass" best describes this song") because its about looking at the world we live in through a microscope and examing who we are Fading-is what you want it to be about, its how the listener perceives it, but in our case its about distinguishing reality from a dream. My Dark Angel-is a song about someone you have had feelings for that maybe you shouldnt have, but you just couldnt help yourself, a guilty pleasure Devil in Which I Confide-its about someone you confide and pour your heart and soul into with trust, only to find out they arent the person they appear to be. Travis Leech-is an ode to the late friend of JPM(Vocalist) his name was Travis Leech, this is a song for anyone who has lost someone important to them. Signs of a Bitter Man-its a tale about coming of age, wondering where or not you are moving in the direction you hope for in your life, or whether you are letting time waste you away till you become bitter or wonder what might have been. Simmer-Its a song about overcoming your inner demons. Prolly the influence of grunge shows in this song. Think Alice in Chains or Nirvana perhaps, we were influenced by them. Questions Never Asked-it describes itself, questions never asked must not be known by you and me....how many of us have questions we want to ask but never do and maybe never will, i know we do. Written with Johnny Cash or Neil Young in mind. Bittersweet Concept-A complex song, full of metaphors and probably our most alternative song because its message is hard to explain. Written with R.E.M. in mind. Look Into My Eyes-Is a pretty simple song lyrically its about loving someone with all that you are and have, giving them your heart and soul and hoping they feel the same. Blind-Our political song, a statement on the country of America in which we live, and how we need to make changes, not make things worse because the time is now to make the change.
