1) Success in Virtually Anything and Everything You Aim for The biggest reason for personal development is success. Whether that be financial success, success in a relationship or simply success in a specific task, success is the number one goal. With the right changes in attitude, and the right frame of mind, your success is only limited by what you believe can be achieved. 2) Organization in Your Life, Which Leads to More Time for Things You Love Part of personal development hinges on setting a path, and creating a more organized setting for your goals. By doing so, you'll be freeing up YOUR valuable time for the things you love, rather than wasting it on things you don't. Here is what you will learn inside this guide.... # How important is self-confidence? You'll quickly see that self confidence is arguably the number one factor in your development. While it isn't the ONLY factor, it's the one that can make the biggest difference. The real question is: How does it make a difference? # Can you identify and deal with your shortcomings? No one is perfect, nor are they expected to be. That doesn't mean you shouldn't strive for perfection. In order to do so, you'll need to be able to identify your problem areas, and understand how best to address them. # Have you laid out your plan for success? The most important thing you can have for any development is a plan. Your plan for personal growth and development needs a few specific inclusions... # Commitment, consistency and consolidation...the three "C's". These three things can make or break your development. While it seems pretty simple, you might be surprised at just what each of them requires from you in order to work together as a whole. # And a lot more!
