This was the first quote received after hearing Coca Shayne for the first time. Little does anyone understand what he is always referring to. The 22 year old rapper from the mean streets of the Northridge has been through many struggles to get where he is today. "It was hard growing up... Pops would only have about a grand or so to steal every day, it was difficult trying to survive..." Bouncing around Catholic schools, private schools and finally to public schools was hard on the fat white kid with the rashes on his thighs. At the age of 15, Coca Shayne met his producer Jay Plot 1-3'ra. After a few years of just making music, Coca Shayne began to rhyme. In 2000, you could not find Coca Shayne in any classroom. For the college dropout it was music, music, music, 23/7. The other hour of every day was for sex and a drive to Taco Bell. In 2003, Jay Plot founded Licorich Record$ and Coca Shayne became the first hip hop artist on the label. Since then he has sold over 10,000 cd's underground and has helped circulate over 30,000 cd's in all. In March 2004, Coca Shayne made his first official release under Licorich Record$. The first album was called Licorich Record$ The Compilation: Vol.1. With his popularity growing from the album and live shows, he began working on his solo album. Officially releasing in early 2005, Licorich Record$ presents Coca Shayne's first album Yesterday'z. Sending in an early copy of his upcoming album to All Access Magazine, Coca Shayne was named Best Urban/Hip Hop/RnB Band/Artist at the 2nd Annual All Access Magazine Music Award Show on Nov. 6, 2004. make his impression felt.
