JAZZ: Smooth Jazz, URBAN/R&B: Soul Details: W. Lee Hogans is the portrait of inspiration for young Jazz musicians everywhere. A young, talented and motivated musician himself, Lee Hogans is on an aggressive path of artistic achievement. A native of Atlanta, Georgia, Lee began studying music at the age of 10, and has evolved into an impressive trumpeter and composer. Under the tutelage of renowned trumpeter Danny Harper, eldest of the talented Harper Brothers, Lee received first-hand instruction on theory, improvisation, composition, and technical style, further developing his skill and ability as a trumpeter. Simultaneously, Lee attended Georgia State University, where he studied classical music under Mark Hughes, principal trumpeter of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra. In 2003, Lee Hogans then earned a Masters degree in Jazz Performance at Rutgers University under the guidance of the renowned jazz educator William Fielder, instructor to award winning artists such as Terence Blanchard and Wynton Marsalis. Lees trumpet stylings have been heard from Savannah, Georgia to Italy, Japan, and Portugal having traveled extensively with international touring band Total Package and under the big top of UniverSoul Circus with the Poppin Soul Band. Lee has also performed with world-renowned musicians including Stanley Cowell, Ralph Peterson, Ralph Bowen, Don Braden, the late great saxophonist Illinois Jacquet and shared the stage with the legendary Ray Charles as a part of his orchestra under the direction Victor Vanacore. Showing a wide range of talents, Lee performs, composes, and manages Pursuance.
