Similiar in nature and attitude, they were often thought to be brothers. One day during recess the duo stumbled upon a broken bottle of Beefeater Gin near the school slide, most likely discarded by a local bum the night before. A wild notion to piece the bottle back together soon ended as they cut themselves picking up the shattered glass. It was then that their bloody fingers met and so became lifelong Beefeater Blood Brothers. They vowed to someday put the pieces back together. Some 20 years passed and the duo reunited to honor the pledge. The broken glass long since devoured by the earth, the duo instead decided to use broken instruments and tape recorders.
