Sultry vocals, hallucinatory guitars, and an ancient drum machine from the early days of industrial goth. 11 MP3 Songs ROCK: Goth, ELECTRONIC: Industrial Details: Geko was a Los Angeles based industrial/gothic band formed in the late 80's - perhaps the only band comprised of two women and a drum machine at that time. Reviewers have called the music "fluid, dark, beautiful, ethereal, erotic, hypnotic... tough sounds that combine to create an introspective experience." Sarah Folkman was the vocalist, bassist, and drum machine programmer. She went on to work with various L.A. musicians and is currently working on a new project with Michael Rozon. Carrie Mc Ninch was the guitarist and drum machine programmer. She has continued her auto-bio comic/zine career, creating Asswhine and Food Geek, and is now moving into the travelogue realm.
