'PAP LEO'S Soukous tune, "That's Life", is a masterpiece of melodious composition, scintillating sounds and pulsating rhythms', wrote Chris Seraphine - President, Caribtempo Communications Inc. Born in Togo, West Africa, of Beninois parents, Pap Leo played guitar in his first band at the tender age of 13! He later played with the great Manu Dibango (of the Soul Makossa fame), with whom he recorded two very successful albums. Coming to Nigeria, this Soukous/Makossa multi-instrumentalist played with several big names including Oliver De Coque, with whom he toured about thirty American States. In "That's Life", Pap Leo reminds us that life is full of ups and downs and then goes on in "Ne Te Derange Pas", to advise us not to worry too much since there is time for everything, good or bad. Keep on loving one another, he sings in "Mi Gniwan Nou Mide", a song performed in Egun, a language spoken extensively across the West African sub-region. This is definitely Soukous/Makossa music at its very best - honestly! *Are you in the mood for love? Then try lovely CYNTHIA, a graduate of Music and English, for size! Cynthia is arguably Nigeria's Queen of Pop. Her sweet vocal style is highly 'infectious'. She dedicates "Cos I Love Him" to all those in love, in spite of opposition from various quarters, due to skin colour, race, religion, ethnicity and/or social/family

background. Hear her; " . . . Life has not been the same since I found my man / They tell me love is black and then say it's white / How can I get things done with such confusion? / I know that love is blue Mama told me so . . . " "Can It Be True?" is a question from Cynthia to you, following her encounter with the man in Downing Street - know him? " . . . How much love is enough for you? / Please love teach me how to love you / Cos losing you will mean the end / Don't let it be the journey's end . . . ", laments Cynthia in "The Journey's End". *B.B. JO, though with a degree in Geology, is one of Nigeria's most exciting R&B/pop crossover singer/songwriters. In "Rhythm Master", she gives it to you exactly the way it is, no-holds-barred! The final 30-second period of this song really reveals her star quality! Check it out. *DICKSON EK started performing live at 10! He has succeeded in perfectly blending West African sounds with American/European sounds to produce an original product. In "Word Of God" and "Fear Not", he blends Nigeria's Yoruba language with English, to make his powerful clarion call to all. If you were looking for real innovative contemporary gospel/pop crossover music, then look no further - Dickson Ek is it! His live performances are also something to behold. *THE UNDERTAKERS members' identities remain a mystery! However, the group's music, which is best appreciated with a pair of stereo headphones on, though mystical, is really fascinating! In "A Star Is Gone", the group, in its characteristic style, laments the demise of a showbiz star. Remember the health warning though! Include this amazing CD as a surprise item in your gift package to a loved one or business associate and expect a very positive reaction! At the advertised price, "PURE SIMPLE (Vol 1)", an inspired production from the stable of BONA VEE MUSIC is great 'value-for-money'. The lyrics of the English and French songs will be sent by e-mail, FREE-OF-CHARGE, to all who buy the CD through this medium! This is indeed a breath of fresh air. N.B.
