Details: "They bill themselves as Southwest Montanas most country country western band. Thats not a claim Im going to argue about with Gallatin Gateways Twang. A favorite live dance band, they mix standard cover tunes with equally well-written originals on their first CD. My favorites are their own songs by guitarists Buck Buchanan and Duke Sharp. Buchanan co-wrote the soon-to-be classic Your Cheatin Heart (Stays on the Juke Box) with producer Kenny Williams, who, along with fellow Montana Rose, Claudia Williams, provides finely tuned harmony vocals throughout. Their rough-around-the-edges delivery actually adds to their honky tonk authenticity. I cant find anything to criticize in their musicianship, which is rounded out by Russ Olsen on bass, Johnny Regan on drums, and Sandy Dodge on sweet steel guitar. The strongest song on the album is Buchanans The Best Place (Wont Last), a lament about the loss of Montanas wild places to real estate development that could only have been written by a longtime Montanan. For an authentic souvenir of your visit to a Montana honky tonk bar, you will be hard-pressed to find something better than the Last of the White-Hot Rednecks." - Scott Prinzing, Montana Magazine
