laid-back music: a mixture of funky rhythms, melodic bass lines and Nomie's captivating voice. 10 MP3 Songs ELECTRONIC: Down Tempo, EASY LISTENING: Lounge Details: Sarah McLachlan meets Portishead What sets Nomie apart from all the other singers is her voice. It is nearly impossible to compare it with anyone else's. Her voice is haunting, yet soothing and refreshing. Nomie studied 8 years with numerous vocal teachers. She perfected her craft with numerous musicals and singing competitions. After high school, she moved to Montreal and studied music at Vanier College. This is where she was introduced to classical vocal training. She admits that the lessons were arduous, but the end result made it all worth it. Nomie started composing early in life but never really took it seriously. It is only in high school that she started to really explore her song writing abilities. She was intrigued by music softwares and the growing popularity of home studios. She decided to learn more about it and studied digital audio and the art of recording after completing her music diploma in college. She slowly started building a home studio and in December 2005 she finally felt ready to record a full-length album; Nonsense Her music is laid-back; a mixture of funky rhythms and melodic bass lines. Add to that her vocal dynamic range, Nonsense is a unique work of art.
