I really enjoyed this and I dare anyone listening... - Ravenmajik Marietta, Georgia Power! This is powerful. It has the energy, the combination of sound and vocals is just right. It has some great transition, the arrangement is really cool. Vocals are placed well. The rhythm is driving as it should, and the guitar sounds great. The electronic/guitar balance is good. Extra Credit: Male Vocals, Guitars, Production, Beat, Mood - ivo_lola Beer Sheva, Negev, Israel ----- wicked energy! I'm digging this sound! The sound FX and samples are really great and the arrangement is creative. Very inventive. And you did have more dynamics and changes in your song than I usually hear! Would be great in a "Matrix" type futuristic movie. Good action feel. Special Award: Best Potential Movie Soundtrack - kaseykelp Northridge, California ----- This rules! Kick ass lyrics man! This is a really good song. Great format. Cool industrial sound. This is really good stuff. i think these are the best lyrics that i have heard on GBDC. Sprocket Kundalini is sheer unfettered electronic ecstacism. I'm still working on deciphering the lyrics, which I suspect are very good. But the most important factor is the music, the sheer, unfaltering production value. Power. Poise. I want that sprocket to touch the rocket in my pocket. ----- From: Frothing Billy Sasquatch Date: 04-14-2003 23:12:14 Subject: review I felt these tracks were pretty inventive. Pretty hard-hitting, they reminded me most of The Prodigy, who've done very well for themselves with a similar style. Some great drum programming (or loop mixing!) and a distinctive vocal style, which will help set you apart. Good luck. ----- From: chip Date: 06-11-2003 07:34:54 Subject: review-sprocket kundalini i haven't listened to this kind of stuff in awhile. i like it because it's a mix between a mad scientists laboratory theme song, skinny puppy and a sugar rush off a box of air heads candy ----- heavy baby! this is so phat and chunky my speakers couldn't handle it. i'd loooooove to hear this played over a huge monster system in a club...i think you got some really trance-inducing/NIN grooves going on here. nice! Extra Credit: Sequencer/Effects Programming, Beat Special Award: Most Rocking Track - mackohoop Montreal, Quebec, Canada ----- KMFDM 2.0 This is a very industrial sounding song. It has a good dancey rhythm, combined with cool distorted guitar and vocals it sounds like KMFDM mixed with Love and Rockets. - jt976evl Tulsa, Oklahoma
