Indie-pop through a warped lens of psychedelic electronica. 15 MP3 Songs POP: with Electronic Production, ROCK: Psychedelic Details: Slowpoke is the first solo album from Brooklyn-based musician Lucas Van Lenten. A labor of love, written and recorded in studios and bedrooms in Austin, Texas and Brooklyn, the album is a psychedelic landscape of broken computer beats, fingerpicked guitars, dub bass and imaginary vocals. Bittersweet melodies drift in and out of soundscapes and glitch-pop rhythms, with lyrical themes of false memory, disintegrating relationships and the politics of the animal kingdom. Some of it even rhymes. "This is a damn beautiful album...like The Soft Bulletin as remixed by The Books." splendidzine.com "Brooklyn-based (by way of Austin, Texas) Lucas Van Lenten does a nice quiet bleepy thing mixing acoustic guitars and atmosperic electronics. Check out his cut "Picture Show" from his 2004 release Slowpoke over at his MySpace teepee. There's also a pretty nice dub number called "Ghost Ship Dub" that will wrap steely slide guitars around the inside of your skull." junkmedia.com Lucas also plays in the indie-country band The Westport Sunrise Sessions with long-time co-conspirators Daniel Weintraub and Jason Broome. They are currently recording their second album.
