I promise you, if you dont get a Twitter account today and start using it youre going to KICK YOURSELF in the near future. You just wait and see. John Reese If you dont have a Twitter account, you really should get one, because Twitter is honestly the next big thing. Dont miss out on this while its still new. Brad Callen Why wait another minute to get started using Twitter when you know you could be building your lists, building relationships, selling more products and services and building your credibility faster. Mike Filsaime Twitter Is Much More Than A "What Am I Doing Now?"... Date: From the desk of Mark Dulisse: I was first introduced to Twitter with a email I received from a business associate that ended with, "Follow Me On Twitter." At first, it was the odd request from various friends and associates. But then, the Twitter stampede started and it seemed as though everyone was getting on the band-wagon and opening up a Twitter profile...and so I caved in to the pressure. At first I did not really understand the entire Twitter concept, and how interactive and micro-blogging it can be. I soon discovered you can literally open your everyday details to a global audience. I learned that Twitter is fast becoming a EMPIRE, that it is the FASTEST growing social media platform today, more than Facebook or MySpace. I learned that there are free applications (API's), and hundreds of them, all designed to expand your Twitter experience. I learned that Twitter can be addictive as you interact with newly formed partnerships and associates in various niches. Because I am an online marketer and traffic expert at heart, I approached Twitter from a business mindset. I asked myself the question, "How can Twitter expand my existing online businesses, and expand new startups?" With this question I discovered that Twitter is one of the top social media tools to build your online empire and business. Now, I use Twitter daily and point all my customers and business associates to my Twitter profiles.. Because I currently have various online business in various niches, I opened up various Twitter profiles for each niche and saw my leads and business generated explode through the roof. Customer service is at an all time high, and this is predominately due to the high responsiveness that the Twitter platform is designed on. In the past three months no-one has done more to turn my Internet struggles into profitability than Mark Dulisse. I have used his Twitter Lead Generation program to good effect not only to gain leads but also make sales. Mark has, in my view, misnamed this Course for it contains far more than information about lead generation. It also contains salient tips and instructions about building and maintaining relationships; how to convert leads into lists; and then goes on to specify the only way these leads may be converted to paying customers. If you're the sort of person who likes tweaking banners and backgrounds in an image editor then you'll love Twitter Lead Generation as it comes with a number of pre-configured backgrounds and graphics that you can customize for your success in seconds. The best thing about buying any product from Mark though is that, unlike many on-line gurus, he is completely transparent and accessible. Indeed in nearly ten years of being on-line Mark has provided me with more help and support than many to whom I've paid thousands of dollars. Twitter Lead Generation contains focussed, pertinent information that many on-line experts would not willingly share, and certainly not for $47.00 USD. If I had just $50.00 to spend in order to begin my Internet business all over, in this age of Web 2.0, most certainly Twitter Lead Generation is the one I would buy.
