It is a song by Bruce Cook called "She is the Fire". All I can think of as I listen is how much I would LOVE to just take the top off the car, and go cruising down I-10 while listening to this song at the loudest it will go. Something about this song reminds me of everything that was great about David Bowie...with maybe a little Echo and the Bunnymen. This is an excellent tune. I am listening again. -I think Amelia is one of the best written tunes I think I've ever heard. If you ever book a gig in NY and need guys for a back up group please don't hesitate to ask. -I just wanted to say, "Amelia" is by far one of the very best songs on MP3 - I play it again and again ! It's the first song I have heard in ages that really grabs you. Congratulations on writing such a brilliant song - In my opinion it merits worldwide success. -I can't stop singing Darkest Moment. Your song really hit a nerve with me. I needed that song to help me through all the uncertainty I am going through.
