

Mp3 The Doug And Jess Band - Slave To This World

DOWNLOAD HERE

The Doug Jess Band are a fatherdaughter writing and performing team located In Winnipeg. They write new songs in the old way; that is, there are times when you think you might be listening to a song by A. P. Carter and its a Jess Reimer song. 14 MP3 Songs COUNTRY: Bluegrass, FOLK: Traditional Folk Details: The Doug and Jess Band are from Winnipeg where they have made an extraordinary splash in the folk and bluegrass scene. The Doug and Jess Band have all of the essential ingredients that combine into an excellent presentation of roots music in the Bluegrass, Folk and Old Time genres. Listening to Doug and Jess it becomes instantly obvious that they have absorbed all the fine traditions of the music and instead of simply repeating what many others have done, they have taken the music to a new level by creating new modern works within the framework of the tradition, Its like new wine in old bottles, says Winnipeg Folk Festival founder Mitch Podolak. I dont know anybody who does this better continued Podolak, It has the feel of the old timers like the Carter Family, but it's almost all brand new songs. Dougs high lonesome voice and Jesss straight strong alto blend together like peas in a pod. The instrumental virtuosity combined with great harmony singing combined with great songs really make the Doug and Jess Band stand out from the rest. Doug and Jess Reimer are the father and daughter front folks of this four-piece band. Jeremy Hamm, who plays mandolin, soulful fiddle and harmony vocals; and five-string banjo player Tim Osmond who is as solid as a rock and holds the whole thing together, join them in the band. Their newly released CD Slave To This World features entirely original music half written by Doug and half written by Jess. Recorded by Norm Dugas in Winnipeg, mixed and mastered by Jim Nunally, includes cover art designed by Juno Award winning designer Michael Wrycraft.

DOWNLOAD HERE

Similar manuals: