Combining emotional lyrics with classical music, Opus 7 has created a groundbreaking sound that takes the listener onto a voyage of heart, mind, body and soul. Susan Frances of Amore Magazine writes, "Opus 7 maintains the classic hip hop ideals of stark, outspoken lyrics embalmed in deep-toned rhythmic beats reminiscent of Tupac Shakur, Acealone, and Ice Cube, but opens a new chapter in the Soul of hip hop music in a revolutionary way by seeing a brotherhood that transcends all societal barriers." She goes on to say, "Opus 7 brings hip hop to a new level, ripen from the adolescent pains of gangsta rap and maturing into a blossoming flux of sophisticated arrangements and poignant lyrics parallel to the significance of The Roots, De La Soul, and Tribe." Sean Stewart AKA QuestSean and Mustafa Shakir AKA M.E. became rap partners in 1998 while Marko Jankovic was in school at the prestigious Berklee College of music in Boston. Later in Los Angeles, Jankovic would connect with the duo, thanks to an ad in a music magazine.
