A mix of popular latin-american rhythms with jazz and the essence of poetry. 12 MP3 Songs FOLK: Folk-Jazz, LATIN: Latin Folk Details: Andrea Tierra, Singer-songwriter from Medellin, Colombia, is the result of the innovative mix of popular Latin-American rhythms with jazz, flamenco and the essence of her own poems which she brings to life on all her performances. With her new project, a quartet including exotic instruments as the colombian harp Andrea builds a world of poetry walking thruogh latin american rhythms as Cumbia, Bambuco and Joropo(Colombia), Samba (Argentina), Lando (Peru) Bossa Nova and Zamba (Brasil), Flamenco (Spain), mixed with the unique New York style. in 2006 Andrea released her first Poetry Book called Canto (Singing), where she developed a new concept of poetry mixing her colombian roots with the US culture and her own experiences as inmigrant and New York resident. Among the many stages where she performed, she had the opportunity to sing in the annual Colombian heritage festival held at the Madison Square Garden and was one of the audiences favorite artists. Andrea Tierra, has performed at The New Orleans Jazz Festival, Panama Jazz Festival, The Bayside Festival of Miami, The Latino Festival of New York, Lowell Folk Festival, Twins Jazz Festival, Colombia Jazz Festivals, Oklahoma Jazz Festival and world music re-known venues as Satalla, Jazz Gallery, Zink bar, Sweet Rhythms, Jazz Standard, among others. Andrea transcends the age gap with the intensity that only a musical leader can do. Martha L Puentes (Aligned Visions) Andrea Tierra is a poem! Latin Week NY Andrea Tierra, performs brilliantly, mixing innovative jazz forms with Colmbian traditional music. The Panama News People who are interested in should consider this download.
