Details: Producer Q: is the Indianapolis based collaboration of Eugene Canady, Dave Fahy, and Danz Poeta's Jamie Vitro. They are considered the a modern version of 70's icons, The Alan Parsons Project. The band easily migrates from synthpop to strait rock to get across the message on the concept album they are currently composing. With Conspire?, they tackle the tricky subject of miscommunication in a society of confused moral values. Not to be tied down with any specific generic title, the band's main focus is the message. Operating from their own private studio, they use whatever tools they deem necessary to get this message across. Conspire?, is a full length EP single. The "b-sides" being the extra remixes and bonus demo/live material.
