Details: A secret gem of an album. that nearly didnt see the light of day! We decided to make an album of songs that we had cherished for a long, long time and always knew were good, but just hadnt found the time to record properly as we vanished off around the UK playing with our proper bands. Sessions started in a tiny Hansel and Gretel cottage, on the edge of a beautiful wood in Gloucestershire England, around the time of the new Millennium. We were doing a Stevie Winwood - a Bob Dylan and the Band thing This was our Woodstock recordings! As the songs started to gel, literally every type of weird and wonderful, person would drop by. Musicians and non musicians galore, raving alcoholics, nudists, nudists wearing hats, eccentrics, pop artists, and anyone with a story they needed to get off their chest. We didn't know then - what was initially intended as a quick/private recording done for fun, was about to turn into a 5 year full blown recording project. Some of the early takes found there way to radio stations as early as 2002. Londons Xfm played "Everyone's allowed a little dreaming" the first night we drove back into London to play our debut at the Waterats in Kings Cross. It sounded like a song coming down from the gods as we weaved up the hard shoulder of the motorway in shock! Bob Geldof came to hear of the band when a friend handed him a copy of a 4 song rough mix. He was heard saying on a radio station, that this band "restored his faith in pop music" and that "somebody should give them a proper release"... All this early attention sent pulses racing and we returned to throw the weirdos out of the kitchen, punch a few walls and finish this thing proper. Before this we had never thought of putting a recording out... Is this a real band? How the hell do you put a record out from scratch anyhow? Rather than rush to get it finished, we thought what the hell!..... and continued adding and scrapping songs and then recording them again, finally wrapping things up at Shonk Studios in Oxford where the Hammond B3s, Mellotrons and Tambourines were wheeled out for the very last time. So here it is....its pretty glorious and if you like this kind of thing - real keyboards of old, vocal harmonies deluxe, Rickenbacker guitars and allit may just take you through a little tour of one or two or three or four of the great bands you love in your record collection. Thats record collectionnot CD! God How many years did this album take to come out?!!!!
