Details: A native of Massachusetts, Ben Baldwin settled into the Roanoke area in 1997. He graduated from Patrick Henry High School, where he staged his first live performance for the senior class in the school theatre. Bens music has been a work of passion from the very beginning. He first began teaching himself to play acoustic guitar at age eleven. His determination to play a favorite song started him on a musical journey that continues even today. With no previous background in music, Ben began teaching himself to play and, in the process, started to find his own sound along the way. Drawing on a wide array of influences such as Dave Matthews, Goo Goo Dolls, Jack Johnson, David Gray, U2, John Mayer, Jimmy Eat World, Nickel Creek and Smashing Pumpkins, Ben began to find the sound that he would come to be known for. As he continued to hone his musical skills playing songs that he knew, Ben began to play music of his own as well. As he continued to grow his repertoire, he started looping and layering his instruments, allowing him to create a sound resembling that of multiple musicians performing together at once. Ben continues to perform in a one-man style that harkens to contemporary singer-songwriter and jam bands such as John Mayer, Dave Matthews and Jason Mraz . When performing on stage, he can often be seen playing a minimum of three instruments, including acoustic guitar, bass, mandolin and even some percussion. His most recent CD release, For The Dreams, recorded at Flat Five Studios, captures and showcases his ability to deliver the whole band experience to the listener. The tracks are built on his ear-catching guitar riffs and clean, yet probing lyrics, which quickly draw the listener in. From the earnest opening track, Star, to the dreamy and deftly woven layers of Heart, and the laid-back, summery Who Knows, every track is a unique treat. Ben crafts tracks that can soothe the ears, provoke the mind and bare the soul. I draw inspiration from life every day, he says, laughing. PLEASE CONTACT US AT:
