Details: With a falsetto Smokey would be proud of (even if the lyrics would make him blush), Clinton Daniel's vocal range extends from sweet, romantic highs to rough, smoldering lows, and his tunes from fast, funky rhythms to slow, sexy ballads. Over the course of about 7 months, he put the album together himself, doing everything from writing performing (all the instruments and vocals) to producing and engineering. The reason the Renaissance man felt the need to fly solo? The self-proclaimed perfectionist knew that the only way to ensure his music would sound the way he wanted it to, was to do it all himself. We, the audience are the ones to gain from Daniel's commitment to his artistic integrity, as his latest cd, 'Dear Ghetto Cinderella' gives us a provocative look into the soul of a multi layered artist.
